

Whose skin?

Skin can protect the body from the weather, infection and injury.

Animals have special types of skin that can camouflage them from predators and help them live in different habitats. Animal skin can be lots of different textures and colours.

Can you fill in the missing answers in this chart?

Name of animal	Description of animal's skin	Where might you find this animal?	Picture of animal's skin
	I have brown and green skin to help keep me hidden. It is usually wet and slimy to keep me cool.
Tiger
	I have feathers to help me fly. My feathers also help to keep me dry.
	I have scales to make it easier for me to swim.
	I have spikes to protect me from other animals that might want to eat me!	In the garden

